Having free access to the FDO is a considerable cost savings: a subscription to the FDO starts at $49.99/month through the FDO FDO plan.Guidestar, Guidestar and the Foundation Center recently merged to form Candid. Information about a foundation's past giving history can help you find out if they fund organizations like yours, which can speed up the process of creating your target funder list. CEF offers a variety of resources, including a free funder database. For example, if you have a subscription to the Chronicle of Philanthropy, as part of your subscription, you also receive free access to the GrantStation. 2022 Candid Seals of Transparency are here! Earn your new Seal today. Other governments also have foreign aid agencies and departments that offer grants and contracts. The Chronicle of Philanthropy is just one partnership GrantStation has in place. To learn about new opportunities, visit the website of the UN agency that works in the area most closely related to your organization's mission. Learn more Find up-to-date information on thousands of nonprofits including: Stay up to date on the latest facts and insights on nonprofits Quantity Easily search 1.8 million IRS-recognized tax-exempt organizations, and thousands of faith-based nonprofits Gather insights on financials, people/leadership, mission, and more Quality Authoritative data derived from validated sources, including 990s and direct reporting's verified and updated daily Best-in-sector proprietary data processing enabling comprehensive analysis Productivity (instead of speed) Expand your research and analysis efficiency's our products do the heavy lifting Power your systems/applications with our premier nonprofit data via APIs Access nonprofit analysis solutions you need. While many opportunities are limited to UK-based organizations, others are open to organizations located in other countries.Lastly, you can find some information about international development opportunities on the site Devex. Through a partnership with GrantStation, Peak Proposals is also able to offer readers an amazing discount on an annual subscription ($95/year instead of the regular price of $699/year). After creating an account on this site, you can set up alerts to learn more about new posts related to specific opportunities.State government opportunities may be a bit more difficult to track. For example, if you work in domestic violence, you would visit the website of your state's department of health and human services to look for lists of advertisements for funding opportunities.Government resources outside the USFor government resources for projects based in countries other than the US, you can find lists of funding opportunities through government-sponsored websites and the websites of regional and multinational organizations.Few national governments maintain resources as grants. Gov, which puts all subsidies from government agencies in one place. For a very affordable price of $12/year, you can receive email alerts about funding opportunities and access a searchable database of funding opportunities.Community Foundations: Community Foundations are a significant source of funding for US-based non-profit organizations. While primarily targeted at UK-based charities, some resources are applicable to non-profit organisations globally.If you have a resource that you use to find information on lenders and funding opportunities, please let us know in the comments!Want to take this list with you for later reference? While Google is often used for grant search, grant searches using Google can be right or wrong (often, too many hits, too many failures), so they have not been included as a resource. If you know other free resources for subsidies, share your knowledge by sending a comment below. If you do not have a specific base in mind, one or all the features below can help you generate a list of potential leads: Foundation Center: Through 400 Public Locations in the US and Internationally, you can access the site site Database of funders of the Center, Directory of the Online Foundation (FDO), and other materials free of charge. Examples of UN agencies include the United Nations Development Fund, the World Health Organization and the World Bank. You can find a downloadable PDF of this list of resources at the end of the post. Second, you should check the websites of embassies or foreign aid offices located in your country, particularly if your organisation is located in a developing country. If you don't have access to a funder database, one of the best (and free) ways to discover corporate donation programs is to visit the websites of companies based on, or serving, their local community. Grantmakers.io is an example of Free and Open Source Software (FOSS). For anticipated opportunities (contracts and grants), there is a very useful database called USAID Business Forecast. You can also access GrantStation for free if you are a member of the Grant Professionals Association. Earn a Seal of Transparency to give donors the information they need to support you. With your free subscription, you will receive a newsletter that includes a selection of open grant opportunities. On grants.gov you will find opportunities posted by 26 federal agencies and 12 independent federal agencies, executive agency offices and committees. Although you won't be able to see the full opportunity by posting for free, you can often see only enough information to be able to track the full list on the relevant funder's public website. Regional and global bodies Regional bodies and multilateral organizations, such as development banks and UN agencies, can also be a source of financing and employment contracts, particularly for larger or better-established organizations. For the discount, join our member area! The best feature to learn about the US government concession opportunities is www.grants.gov, which is a free service of the US government. You can find a list of UN agencies on the UN website. Other multilateral organizations are listed on the Governmental Donors and Intergovernmental Agencies's resource page.Other ResourcesIn addition to the resources above, you can also track down potential funders and funding opportunities by subscribing to newsletters distributed by individual foundations and philanthropy news outlets. You can access the GrantStation grantmaker database for free if you are a member of the Grant Professionals Association. To see if there is a Funding Information Network location near you, type your location into the Foundation Center's look up form. If your budget is large enough, you can subscribe to services that will send you alerts about new opportunities. The company produces two free newsletters, one that lists recent US-based grant opportunities (weekly) and one that lists international grant opportunities (monthly). One of the most reliable routes to find state-level opportunities is to visit the website of the state-level department that oversees your program area. (Good news: it's free.) Update now Efficiently find organizations that will meet your goals and gain more valuable partnerships with GuideStar Pro. You can visit grants.gov and search by agency, you can subscribe to the grants.gov RSS feed, or you can download the mobile app recently released by grants.gov for IOS and Android.If your organization is based outside the US, grants.gov is still relevant. You can also find community foundation listings on the Peak Proposals website.Corporate Foundations: Many companies, multinational and local, have grant programs or provide in-kind donations. Another site that you may want to dial is thanks, the UK network for organizations working on international development. You can learn about companies by giving programs (also known as corporate social responsibility programs or CSR) in your area through reading your local work, reviewing local and regional business magazines and observing sponsorships of local events. If you are looking at PE 990 of the Foundation, you will see the names of the organizations that the fund has financed during the archiving period, the value in dexing given to each organization O, and sometimes even a brief description of the purpose of each concessure. Site materials, newsletters and RFP announcements are all free accessible free. Grants Directory: Living Earth is a resource for project concession opportunities in developing countries related to agriculture, energy, environment and natural resources. On the PND website, you will find requests for proposals (RFPs) listed by category. While some philanthropy news stores require a paid subscription, such as philanthropy, others, such as non-profit quarterly, allow access to the full text of at least some of their signature contents.
